Two Lectures Daily On Next Wednesday, Thursday

SPRING CONFERENCE

Lynn Squires of Fort Worth Coming for Lectures

Canyon's Spring Sales Conference, lasting for two days, will open next Wednesday. It is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and will be conducted by Lynn Squires of Ft. Worth. Regular sessions for the business and professional men and women will be held in the district court room in the court house, Wednesday and Thursday, April 26-27, afternoon and evening.

Mr. Squires, nationally known as a sales counselor, has devoted twenty years of intensive effort to the inspiration of thousands of executives, sales managers' salesmen, workmen and students in almost every phase of American business and social life in every state of the Union. Recently he assumed the position with the Trinity Companies of Ft. Worth, as public relations director.

He is an inspiring speaker of simple and direct approach. His forcefulness and logic, punctuated with delightful humor and a keen insight into the human element in business, has gained for him wide acclaim.

His services are meeting with renewed demand among business organizations, especially anxious to attune their businesses to meet the changed conditions which face them today. Mr. Squires is a business analyst and authority on merchandising. He is practical, conservative, but scientific and understands the fundamentals of economy and efficiency in business operation.

A vivid discussion of the subject of the employee's part in the business world today is contained in Mr. Squire's lecture "Cost of the Untrained Employee."

His delicate handling of the subject and comprehensive knowledge of American business has caused Mr. Squires to be retained by forty-seven of the largest commercial organizations in Ft. Worth for the purpose of educating their employees in their responsibilities to the business in which they are engaged and their relation to the business.

Other subjects to be discussed by Mr. Squires during the Canyon Spring Sales Conference, include:

"The New Deal in Merchandise."

"Value of Personality in Business."

"Rebuilding Business."

"Applied Sales Efforts."

In addition to the regular sessions each afternoon and evening for the benefit of the business and professional people, Mr. Squires will address the students at the high school and special classes at the college.

There will be no charges for any of the sessions. The services of Mr. Squires are being offered to the business firms of Canyon for the taking.

The regular sessions of the Conference will be held each afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and each evening at 8 o'clock in the district court room.

Garden Damage by Cut Worms In the Early Spring

Almost every year, especially when the early spring is dry and warm there is a great amount of damage done to early gardens by cut worms. There are at least 19 different species of cut worms. The damage done by them varies according to the season and specie that is present. The cut worms winter over in the soil, and they come out just about the time the young plants are ready to be put out. The black cut worm which is so common in this section is pretty hard to control by poisoning because of its habit of feeding under ground. The species that attack plants above or at the surface of the ground, including the climbing cut worms may be controlled very effectively by the poison bran bait prepared of the following materials.

Wheat bran, 20 pounds; white arsenic or Paris green, 1 pound; lemons or oranges, 6 fruits; low grade cane or sorghum molasses, 2 quarts, water 1 gallon.

Mix the bran and poison thoroughly while dry. Dilute the molasses with the amount of water as named, squeeze the lemon juice into this diluted molasses, then grind the rind of the lemons finely with a meat chopper and add this also to the liquid. Mix the liquid thoroughly with the poison bran mixture. After an even mixture has thus been obtained, add more water and mix, until a mash is obtained that when squeezed in the hand readily falls apart.

This poison bran may be very effective, especially if used a few days before planting the infested ground and kept up every few days until after the plants are well started. It should be thinly scattered along the rows late in the afternoon.

Another very effective method of fighting the cut worms, so far as cabbage and tomato plants, etc., are concerned is to use a heavy paper or tin cylinder around each plant. Most farmers know that the common number two or three tin cans with both ends cut out are real handy for this purpose. These should be set so as to go down two or three inches in the soil.

County Agent.

West Texas Chamber Is Sponsoring Relief Work

Information regarding the reforestation work and those who may enlist with the Government in this work was sent this week to C. H. Jarrett, Randall County Chairman of the Red Cross. This information has been placed at the disposal of the Chamber of Commerce.

A portion of the letter from Washington headquarters of the Red Cross states:

"Unemployed, unmarried men now on relief rolls, 18 to 25 years of age, who desired to allot a substantial part of their cash allowance for the benefit of their families and dependents will be selected first. This task of recruiting is primarily one of careful selection. Those in charge of recruiting plans in Washington point out that with millions of families now receiving relief, a Civilian Conservation Corps of 250,000 could be enrolled very promptly. The recruiting officials, however, desire to select those men who will be best fitted for camp work and whose going will least disturb the family life, while at the same time making it possible elimination of individuals from relief rolls in the cities. Experienced forest men now unemployed, and living near the proposed work camps, will be recruited and assigned to the different work camps."

Members of a local committee from the Chamber of Commerce who were in conference with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials in Amarillo, Monday, in discussing the Palo Duro Park project as a possible means of relieving the unemployed situation in this area, were informed that an application had been filed for the placing of two camps of the Civilian Conservation Corps of 200 men each in the Palo Duro Canyon. It is understood that such a request has been approved by Governor Ferguson and will be filed with the Federal Government within a few days. News dispatches from Austin have since confirmed the statement of the

PROGRAM HELD FRIDAY BRINGS CROWD OF 1600

T. D. Hobart Turns Key To Doors; Cannon In Lone Salute

NAME NEW OFFICERS

Judge J. D. Hamlin In Dedication Address at Banquet

Pioneer Hall was opened to the public Friday in one of the most impressive programs that has ever been witnessed in Canyon.

Ideal weather followed the sandstorm of Thursday, which was pronounced the worst that even the old timers had ever experienced.

The pioneers came. They wished to witness the result accomplished by their organization which was formed in 1921, and which has been working diligently for the past three years in the erection of the new museum building.

The morning program started at 10:00 o'clock. The auditorium was filled, a large percent of the audience being old timers who came to celebrate the opening of the museum. The first part of the program was a pageant depicting the early life on the plains. Nine scenes were enacted of the early history of the Panhandle Plains, which were greatly enjoyed by the visitors.

Judge H. E. Hoover then addressed the gathering, using as his subject, "What Is Education?" His address is printed in full on another page of this issue of the News.

Following the morning exercises, the audience was invited to the museum. The ancient cannon of the museum boomed a few minutes before 12:00 o'clock, announcing that the museum was completed, and ready to receive the hundreds of visitors. President T. D. Hobart spoke a few appropriate words in appreciation of the work of those who had labored for the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, and then threw open the doors of the museum. A reception line was formed of the officers and directors, and of the building committee of the Society, while hundreds of people thronged the building, and congratulated those who had accomplished the building of the first museum in the state of Texas.

The Sweetwater Chuck Wagon Association served more than 500 with a chuck wagon dinner, under the direction of John Hendrix. All of the proceeds of the dinner were turned over to the museum as a gift from the Association, which is composed of old cow men who wish to keep alive the traditions of the cow trail in West Texas. Mr. Hendrix has put on chuck wagon dinners in many towns, but states that in no town has he been so cordially received as in Canyon, and no organization has been so appreciative as was the Historical Society. This was affirmed by

PANHANDLE MEMBER 1932 PRESS ASSOCIATION

HONORING THE PIONEERS

Those who were unfortunate enough not to attend any of the sessions of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Friday missed the most important gathering held in Canyon in recent years. It was not the largest gathering perhaps that has been held in Canyon where conventions of various kinds are very common, since twenty or more large gatherings annually are not unusual. But this gathering was different.

Annual sessions of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society have in the past brought a hundred or more pioneers to Canyon. This year they came from a much larger territory, and numbered more than 500 during the day. It was conservatively estimated that fully 1000 out-of-town people attended the different exercises during the day.

What an inspiration!

What a challenge to those who cannot be classed as pioneers!

What a chain has been forged which will bind the hearts of the pioneers of West Texas to the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, to the College and to Canyon!

What an obligation it creates for the people of Canyon to see that the hospitality which was shown on the part of our citizenship on Friday will continue to be extended during the coming years!

The pioneers of West Texas have builded a monument to themselves. Some of the stone, brick and mortar in that building represent real sacrifice on the part of these pioneers. Some of the money that was given to erect the museum came from those who could not afford to give. They gave it cheerfully that the history of this section might be preserved.

But the erection of the building is only the first step that is necessary. There is much work ahead for the officers if this museum is to be a real monument to the pioneers.

President H. E. Hoover has set the goal for the coming year's work. He wants 2,000 new members for the Society. This would bring in sufficient money to build cases to display the relics now on hand, and to do other necessary work in connection with the furnishing and equipping of the museum. Canyon should furnish at least 500 of these new members. There is hardly a family in Canyon which should not be represented on the membership rolls of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society. The annual membership fee is $3.00. The life membership fee is $25.00.

For the sake of the pioneers who have builded so well, there is need of a hearty response on the part of Canyon's citizenship.

A mis-statement of facts has gone the rounds in Canyon the past week. Some citizens seem to think that the College fight is all settled, and that we are safe and sound and undamaged as a result of the attack made on the College in the legislature. This is not the truth. An attempt is being made to do by appropriation what the bills introduced failed to accomplish. This is true of the House bill, especially. Appropriations for several teaching positions have been eliminated in the House bill. Radical reductions are made in this bill, and the summer sessions are not provided for. This means that the work which has been so successfully carried on to combat unfavorable legislation must continue until the end of the legislative session. It means that the Chamber of Commerce must continue to be represented at Austin in order that corrections be made in the appropriation bills. The real fight of the session is yet to be waged. A number of people in Canyon who would be greatly affected if the College is injured, have failed or refused to assist in this campaign to keep a representative in Austin. Judge J. D. Hamlin loves this institution; he is giving his time and talent to the college; surely it is a most short-sighted policy for any Canyon citizen to say that he cannot afford to give a little money to support the fight which must continue. Let the citizens of Canyon rally to the cause of supporting the college through the work that is being done by the Chamber of Commerce.

Judge H. E. Hoover, Pioneer Panhandle Attorney, Made Chapel Address Friday; Education Never Complete, Tells Audience

No man or woman ever received a complete education in any institution of learning; yet the intellectual and moral advancement of the entire human race depends upon such institutions.

The place occupied by the great and useful men and women of today must, ere long, be surrendered to the younger generation whose minds are being now prepared and fitted to take it up just where the older ones must leave off. The training school can but give the foundation upon which the real education can more easily be acquired. Note the statement—"the foundation." The foundation must be first laid before the building can be erected, and the foundation is useless unless the building is erected thereon—the foundation is not the building and the building is not secure without the foundation.

Advocate of Higher Learning

I am persuaded that the great error committed today by a greater mass of our student body is the erroneous belief that when their school days are over, their education is complete. This belief is responsible for the many failures registered in after life by many University graduates.

Personally, I have never enjoyed the great advantage of even a college education, still I am an ardent advocate of higher educational institutions of learning. Yet, the advantage of early training in our great institutions of learning, like all good things, may have its own disadvantage and may do more harm than good. The great possibilities of many great minds have been wrecked by this thought, i. e., "My education is complete; I have completed the highest educational 'Curriculum', and the world is mine without further effort."

Mind is Explored

This is a progressive world, and its greatest progressive age. Nothing is complete, or has yet reached the point of perfection—not even man. The greatest possibilities of both mind and matter lie untouched before us; the greatest blessings of mother earth are undiscovered, and her brightest jewels are still hidden in her unfathomable bosom, and the brightest gems of human intellect yet lie dormant in the unexplored possibilities of the human mind.

The ebb and flow of the great ocean of waters is but a type of human, moral and intellectual development—both must roll on and on ceaselessly or be lost in the vortex of its own stagnation. The waters of the lake, the pool and the pond must return to the waters of the ocean or become stagnant, from which it receives its strength and purification; the individual intellect must mix and mingle with the great masters of the past and the present, or be lost in the great whirlpool of progression; the true history of the past is the index to a higher and better life.

Message to Youth

Should it be left to me to give but one message to the young and inquiring mind, that message would surely be that your school days can only fit you to become a greater factor in the battle of life, and to enable you to perform and do well the duties, and meet the responsibilities which you must do and assume in the battle of life; this in order to do your part in making the world a better place in which to live, and in sowing the seeds of happiness, contentment, and good fellowship among all mankind.

The young people should be educated to the point of appreciating the works of the great thinkers of the ages, otherwise these great works will be lost. The elevation of mankind in general must come about through the efforts of the young people and their determination to do their part in shaping the lives of others and in fitting them for useful manhood and womanhood.

We are living today in a great age of progression; the telegraph, the telephone, the radio and all of the means of rapid transportation and communication are bringing the world closer together for the benefit of all mankind. It is natural for us to think that in these matters we have reached the end of human possibilities. Past experience teaches us that this thought is not true.

The first steam driven road machine was invented and put to use in the year 1801. When first viewed, it was thought to be the end of perfection in that line. It was tested and failed to meet the requirements of that age. However from this crude machine, which was then considered the highest type of perfection, we now have the steam engine, the automobile, the flying machine and all of the great inventions of the age. This crude machine stands today as the Mother of the steamship, the steam car and all steam and gas driven machinery of the present day, which have united in bringing about and bringing together the people of the earth, and in gradually uniting the people in a common cause for progression.

Change in History

These great inventions have resulted in and made possible our great national expositions wherein the works and deeds of all nations and people, from the highest and most enlightened to the primitive and most savage come together in one common cause; resulting in the advancement and betterment of all the people of the earth. As a result, we are today writing a new and different history.

Our modern history is no longer a history of war, corruption, bloodshed and greed, but today deals with the inventions of the people, their intellectual advancement and progression in all of the arts; all of which has come about and been made possible by these inventions, resulting in universal transportation of both commodities and thought among the people of the earth.

Rise of Social Humanity

History is no longer a narrative in chronological order of political or military events, of bloodshed and rapine, but rather an account of the culture and advancement of the people of the whole world. Today the historian tells us about the people, their houses, furniture, customs, food; how the people make their living, what buildings they raise, what books they read, what books they write, what schools they attend and how they are supported, what belief and what superstition they once held and how these were eradicated from the human mind; what amusements and what festivities they enjoy. History today does not limit its inquiry to civilized man, but deals with the condition of the savage as he now exists and as he existed in remote ages.

All of these changes tend to bring into dispute the ideas of the dark ages, and are today shedding a light upon the future which is destined at no far distant day to regulate and renovate the ideas of mankind; and will ultimately educate and fraternize the world. Therefore, today literature is a profession and the literary man has a world-wide audience which is bound to be beneficial to all mankind.

Advocates Universal Language

When we contemplate the advancement made during the last few decades, toward a better and higher life, we are bound to conclude that the time is fast approaching when the world will speak a universal language, brought about by the great inventions which have enabled all of the people of the earth to communicate directly with one another and to receive the benefit of the thoughts and experiences of each other.

May I say here that the inconvenience brought about as the result of diversity of language was never so great as the present time. Travel has become general and a habit of all progressive people; nations read one anothers books and profit by the discovery, the inventions, and the progress of each other. Internationalism of modern literature, science, philosophy, invention, art and transportation of both thought and commodities, demand an international medium of expression. Crude attempts to achieve this desired result have often been made, but defeated largely by selfish and local interest. Today, however, the spread of the English speaking people throughout the globe, we predict, will sooner or later make our own language, a language of universal commercialism. By a conservative estimate, over two hundred million people speak the English language as their mother tongue or as an acquired accomplishment. Russian is used by less than one hundred million. German by less than eighty million, Spanish, fifty million, and French, forty million.

"The International Mind"

The necessity for a universal language is further made necessary by the many universal expositions, held among the various nations of the earth, to which all countries and people, including the savage, send their best treasures, the evidence of their industry and their advancement, showing where they commenced and the extent of their progression. History records that in the last few decades, over two thousand such international expositions have been held. The frequent gathering of distinguished scholars, men of letters, patriots and statemen, from all the different countries of the earth, are fast producing what we may justly term "The International Mind."

The increased intercourse between civilized and non-civilized people, brought about by the great inventions and rapid transportation now in use, has not only broadened the outlook for a better world, but has also widened the sympathies of the people and produced a feeling of human brotherhood which has heretofore been limited to one Clan, City, Tribe, or State, and is fast growing into a great brotherhood destined to include all mankind. These conditions are fast sowing the seeds of human kindness and impressing upon the greater and most enlightened the obligation of the strong to the weak and the learned to the unlearned and sending out to the civilized world a protest against oppression in all of its forms.

The history of the world is but a history of its people. A true history should record and make known the acts of all people, showing their progression, their state of civilization and the means and condition by which they are surrounded. By these means we see and may profit by the errors committed by others and avoid the danger thereof.

Youth Inherits Responsibility

The young people today must train themselves to step into the shoes of those who are now fast passing away and must fit themselves to take up and carry on the work left unfinished by those who have passed on. This means that they must advance and must do greater and better things than the things accomplished by those in whose footsteps they tread.

As heretofore stated, the fearful mistake is the thought that when the school days are over, the work is completed, when in truth and in fact the work is just begun.

History today is interested to know where all young people shall commence their life work, how they may best labor and by what means they can best overcome these disadvantages and bring about universal peace and prosperity, which must necessarily be the great object in view by all progressive people.

Let us here impress the young mind, with all the force at my command, that he or she who depend upon the books entirely for an education is bound to be an ultimate failure. School books, as well as all other classes of literature, are but the record of the study, thought and experience of others and can only be a guide to direct others to greater and more ennobling deeds which the books are the fuel and the means—the transportation by which we may pass on to greater and more ennobling works for the benefit of all mankind.

A Dedication of Deeds

Today we are making history; today is a day of triumph in the great Panhandle of Texas; today we dedicate to posterity the acts and deeds of the great men and women who have made possible the many blessings we here and now enjoy. With a heart full of love and appreciation we have erected to their memory the most beautiful structure in this, the land of their deeds of heroism and unselfish devotion, and filled it with the personal evidence of the hardships, trials, and privation they endured, and also the evidence of the well earned success which so justly crowns their unselfish efforts to upbuild this land of ours which they so dearly loved.

To us, who are here assembled to do honor to those to whom honor is so justly due, I bespeak a united effort to continue the noble example set before us, and build a type of manhood and woman hood upon this foundation which will make this land of ours just what nature and these hardy pioneers destined it should be in name, in truth, and in fact, "THE LAND OF THE FREE AND THE HOME OF THE BRAVE."

Modern husbands, so a satisfied wife tells us, are not built for speed.

Make Easter Togs Your Wardrobe Basis

LIGHTWEIGHT WOOLENS, CORDED AND PLAIN SHEERS, MATELASSE CREPE, ARE ALL GOOD CHOICES OF MATERIAL

BY HARRIET

THE Easter parade of fashions will be headed by chic individuality.

Your spring wardrobe should be built around the clothes which you select for the Easter parade itself. If you choose your outfit wisely with an eye to a neutral color it will not be difficult to choose costumes later which harmonize with it.

Just what sort of a dress to get for earliest spring wear is something of a problem. If the climate of the place where you live is warm enough to make Easter Sunday a coatless day an Easter dress is all important. Get a dress that is an ensemble in itself.

Be most careful in your choice of material for the Easter frock. Lightweight woolens are popular for street dresses. Sheers, both corded and plain, are practical and very, very smart. Matelasse crepe is a new fabric and a very handsome one too. Novelty cottons woven to look like wool are used in many dresses suitable for street wear.

Coat dresses which look like coats but are really tailored ensembles will undoubtedly put you way ahead in the style race on Easter Sunday. Some of them are wrap-around affairs. Others are double-breasted with small, crisp white collars and cuffs.

Dresses which have matching jackets lead in smartness this spring. One of lightweight woolen is sure to be practical. Often a printed dress is topped off by a jacket of solid color. The reverse is also true and plain colored dresses are lovely with printed jackets.

Blue is the most popular color for Easter clothes. Black is always good and a great deal of gray and beige is shown.

Jackets vary from short little boleros to three-quarter length ones. If you wear loose sports things well by all means get a swagger jacket to match your dress.

Trimming plays an important part in your Easter clothes. The right buckle adds glamour to a costume. Buttons are much in evidence.

The vogue for masculine clothes makes suits resembling sailor clothes popular. These are usually made of dark blue or black crepe. The skirts have pleats in front and back and the jackets are double-breasted worn over white blouses that have enormous white revers turned out over the lapels of the jacket.

THIS red, white and black checked swagger jacket of sheer woolen is worn over a dress which has a black skirt and matching checked top. The skirt is built up above the waistline but the belt is worn lower—at the normal waistline—and fastened in front with a large buckle also of red, white and black.

This is an excellent costume for the Easter parade and is the kind of a dress you will wear and wear and wear all spring and summer. The sleeves are organ-pleated on to the raglan shoulders.

A round crowned hat, high in the back, with a pert little veil worn low over the face completes this perfect Easter ensemble.

The coat dress of corded sheer has one pocket, is excellent for street wear and will do you proud for a church dress Easter morning. Its double-breasted effect is accentuated by large bone buttons. The double breast is faced with dotted white satin which also forms a trig round collar. The sleeves have under cuffs of the same white dotted satin.

Canadian, New York Projects Presage Success of U. S. Forest Plan

IF the progress made in his New York state forestry plan is any sort of a gauge, President Roosevelt can afford to be optimistic about the workability of his national reforestation program. And, if he needs further assurance on the subject, he can study a parallel project which our northern neighbors in Canada have been carrying on for the past year.

In his reforestation program, the president aims to provide work for the idle, to utilize nonproductive farm lands for the nation's future timber supply, and to put into full stride a forestry plan which has been creeping along for more than half a century.

Reforestation of New York's surplus land, launched in 1929 by the president, then governor of the Empire State, provided work for 10,000 jobless last year, and has brought about the reforestation of 60,000 acres bought by the state at an average cost of $3.68 an acre. Twenty million dollars will be spent over 11 years to restore timber to barren acreage in New York state—$1,000,000 of this to pay for the land; the remainder to cover employment, seeding, fire and insect-pest prevention, etc.

Closely paralleling the Roosevelt reforestation scheme, at least from the angle of unemployment relief, is the plan being followed in Canada. There, a literal "labor army," strung out in a series of work camps throughout the Dominion, is busy constructing and repairing airports, fortifications and other federal works; and in laying highways through virgin territory. For this work each man gets 20c a day, his board and lodging. Formerly the pay was a few cents higher. When the camps, which are operated along military lines, were first opened a year ago, the response from jobless Canadians was so great that only a few of the many thousands who applied were successful. Only single men have been hired under this program.

The New York state project is illustrating what splendid results a well-planned schedule can produce in the way of jobless relief and in providing future timber supply. And the response to the Canadian plan suggests that the American program will not be hindered by any shortage of manpower.

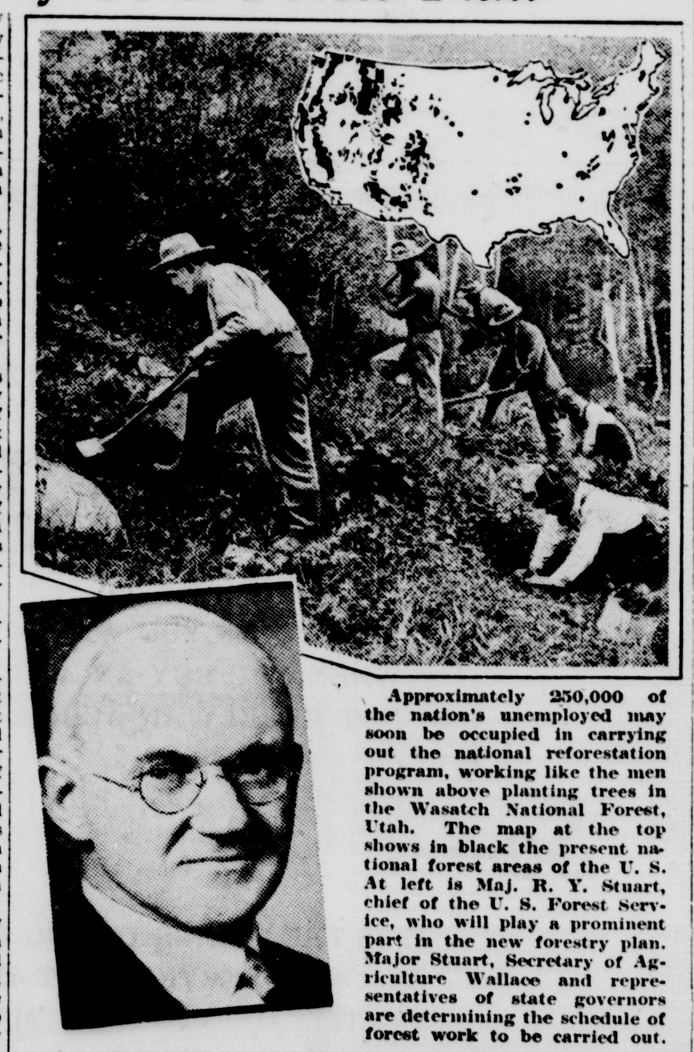
THE U. S. plan will function along semi-military lines. Recruits will be gathered at army posts. There will be physical examinations, registration, conditioning, a wage of about $30 a month. A list of projects to be undertaken on timbered sections of the Indian lands and in national parks has been prepared by the Department of the Interior. The U. S. Forest Service under the lead of its chief, Major R. Y. Stuart, together with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and representatives of state governors, have conferred on the schedule of forest work to be carried out.



Approximately 250,000 of the nation's unemployed may soon be occupied in carrying out the national reforestation program, working like the men shown above planting trees in the Wasatch National Forest, Utah. The map at the top shows in black the present national forest areas of the U. S. At left is Maj. R. Y. Stuart, chief of the U. S. Forest Service, who will play a prominent part in the new forestry plan. Major Stuart, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and representatives of state governors are determining the schedule of forest work to be carried out.

FIFTY-SEVEN years ago the United States took the first major step in forestry. Alarmed at the rapid consumption of timber, the government in 1876 made an inquiry into forest conditions from which grew strong sentiment for conservation of our timber resources. Disastrous forest fires, insect-pest depredations, the heavy consumption of wood entailed by the rapid growth of the United States, and consequent increased production of houses, telegraph poles, railroad ties—even the lowly pencil—has in recent years made conservation and reforestation important national problems.

The McNary-Clarke Act of seven years ago laid the foundation of a National Forest Policy, providing for the expansion of our timber resources; and to this movement the Roosevelt reforestation program adds a tremendous impetus.

Texas Almanac Is Placed on Sale In Canyon at the News

Many new features are contained in the Texas Almanac and State Industrial Guide for 1933, which has just been issued by The Dallas News. There are more than 1,000 articles, statistical tables, illustrations and maps, answering between 50,000 and 100,000 questions about Texas. Every phase of Texas' economic, political and civic development is covered, including farming and live stock, manufacturing, wholesale and retail trade, population, railroads, aviation, highways and automobiles, motor transportation, inland waterways, minerals and mining, government and names of State, district and county officials, education, conservation and numerous other subjects.

A large folded sheet between the leaves of the volume carries political and railroad map on one side and highway map on the other. These maps were made especially for the Texas Almanac and are up to date and accurate. As one runs through the leaves of the volume one comes across such interesting miscellaneous articles as Historic Landmarks of Texas, Archeological Research in Texas, Noteworthy Texas Caves, the Program for State Parks, Health Resorts and Places of Recreation, Arts and Artists, Libraries, Old Cattle Trails, Boundary Disputes. Kinds of Salt and Fresh Water Fish Found in Texas, Home Canning and Farm Terracing and Home Tenantry.

If one wishes to know where the principal lakes of Texas are found, how to fly the Texas flag, the depth of the deepest oil well, the amount of oil and gas in Texas reserves, where the McDonald Observatory is to be built, how much is collected from the gasoline tax or the amount of the pay roll of Texas railroads, he will find it in the Texas Almanac.

While many new articles have been included, the chapters of information that have become standard in the Texas Almanac are retained completely revised and enlarged. There are more than 7,000 names of individuals in the book. Especial attention is given to historic features, particularly those of importance in connection with the tentative plans for a centennial celebration. The volume this year lives fully up to its reputation of being the "Encyclopedia of Texas." Incidentally, a review of its contents reveals a marvelous amount of development in the Lone Star State, even during the last few years of business stagnation.

AMARILLO WINS TENNIS MEETS

The honors in the High School Tennis Tournament held here Friday and Saturday for girls, a branch of the Texas Interscholastic League contest, were taken by Amarillo when both singles and doubles were won in the finals played against Panhandle.

Eight high schools were represented here, Amarillo, Panhandle, Kress, Hereford, Claude, Canyon, McLean, and Hedley.

Final scores are indicative of Amarillo's superiority which was manifest throughout the tourney. Doubles final games ended 6-1 and 6-0. Singles, 6-1 and 6-1. At no time was Amarillo defeated more than one game in a set or two games to a match.

Miss Ruth Cross was in charge. W. T. students officiated.

The Boys' Tournament, held on the same dates, was played on Amarillo courts. Only the victory of the Follett doubles team prevented Amarillo from making a clean sweep of the contests. Follett downed the Amarillo combination by scores of 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, and 6-3. The Amarillo singles player performed the upset of the two days by winning over Oklahoma Lane in the finals.

House Is Robbed $125 Value Lost

The home of Miss Edna Graham, 1900 Fourth Avenue, was entered by a burglar last Wednesday evening between 7:00 and 8:00 p. m. while the occupants were absent. Clothes, silverware, and other valuables worth nearly $125.00 were taken, none of which has been recovered.

Miss Graham, a member of the W. T. Department of Mathematics, was away not more than an hour. The house was entered by a door which had been left locked and was found locked upon Miss Graham's return. She has advanced the theory that the theft was committed by some person who either stole or found keys to the house which she recently lost.

Miss Nancy Graham, a niece, was left bereft of a wardrobe, the robber having taken a fancy to the young lady's clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb R. Miller and daughter of Lubbock spent the week end here with his sister, Miss Ethel Black.

Ray McReynolds is able to be out after an illness of nine weeks. He is on crutches but hopes to soon be able to discard these.

Canyon High To Enter District Meet, April 22-23

The Canyon High School is to compete with the high schools of 19 other counties at the 23rd Annual District One meet which will be held at the West Texas State Teachers College, April 21 and 22. The counties in District One who are eligible to enter this meet are: Randall, Roberts, Potter, Sherman, Parmer, Oldham, Ochiltree, Moore Lipscomb, Hutchinson, Hemphill, Hartley, Hansford, Gray, Donley, Deaf Smith, Dallam, Castro, Carson and Armstrong. Professor W. E. Lockhart is general manager of the meet.

The district meet has been divided into sections, having a special director for each. The debate division is directed by C. W. Batchelder; the extemporaneous speech by Supt. Guy Tabor; the declamation division by Professor H. A. Finch. Supt. of Dalhart Schools; the essay writing division by Miss Jennie C. Ritchie, and the athletic division is directed by Mr. Carl York. Tennis, one-act plays, and basketball contests, will not be among the district meet events this year, having already been played.

Canyon High School has entered Joe Collins and Ogden Stroud to compete in the boys' debate division, and Armor Lee Greenfield and Kathryn Robinson in the girls' division. In the declamation department, Rosa Cash and Robert Black represent Canyon High School. Mary Ella Lowe and Robert Orton are the entries in the extemporaneous speech division. It is uncertain whether the track team of Canyon High School will enter the meet or not. The list of the probable entries have been sent to the district officials, however. If Canyon High School track team does enter the meet, these students will probably take part in the events: Austin Cone, F. A. Thomas, Alton Brasuel, Tyson Cox, Ed Brooks, Hampton Lisle, Owen Miller, and George Brasuel.

Those who win in the district meet here will contest with students from all over the state at Austin. Special train rates have been offered the contestants and coaches so as to make the trip inexpensive, and these people will stay at assigned homes in the resident section of Austin. This final contest is held May 4 and 5 and may many of the contestants of Canyon High School be there to represent this school.

Junior-Senior Banquet To Be Tuesday, Apr. 25

The most brilliant social events of the year is to be April 25 when the juniors entertain the seniors at the annual Junior-Senior banquet. One very unusual event in this banquet is that the senior president for the following year will be elected. The banquet is to be served at the Christian church dining room by the ladies of the church. Tickets priced at 40 cents are to be sold by the juniors.

JACKS DEFEAT CANYON

Last Friday the Happy Jacks' volleyball team came to Canyon for a practice game with the Canyon High School team. The team did not show up as well as possible. Although the team lost to Happy, in the district tournament the Canyon team expects to win the small loving cup. The team has not been definitely chosen, but these sophomores are eligible to be on the team: Arneta Kirkpatrick, Mable Schmitz, Mary Lee West and Bill Price. Other girls showing in good work are: Frances Gill, Edith Steen and Winnie Dee Hicks.

LOST DEBATE

The Canyon High School debate team lost their second debate to Beulah High, Wednesday night, April 13.

This makes the second debate Joe Collins and Ogden Stroud have lost to the same school. The Saturday before they lost to Beulah at Canyon. However, this small defeat matters little compared to their success this year and we expect much of them at the district meet Friday.

SENIOR PLAY

The Senior Play, "Adam and Eve," will be presented May 4, at 8:00 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. The admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

Many Sophomores Active In Sports In Canyon High

The sophomore class of Canyon High School has taken a great interest in school sports this year. It has sent a large number of students into this field and many will be rewarded for their efforts by a letter.

In the football season of this school year a large percent of the yards gained by the Canyon High School football team was due to the ball carrying ability of Wade Johnson and Johnny Wilson, two sophomore half backs. Not only did these two boys carry the ball over the line for touchdowns, but it is to them that credit should be given for the long runs made by other backs, since their blocking was an outstanding feature of the season.

However, these are not the only sophomores to be grateful for their playing. Curtis Elliston, another half back and Chris Wooten, a tackle have also proven their value to the team by winning a letter. Curtis Elliston will probably be a candidate for end next year and if he works on the line as he did in the back field this year, he will have little trouble in making the varsity. Chris has a brother to follow, and we expect the same from him on the line as Clarence Wooten accomplished in the back field.

In the basketball season the story is the same. Many sophomores won letters as basketball players.

Curtis Ellison and O. M. Solomon both lettered in basketball. Both of these boys played guard and although the basketball season was not so very successful, their playing was of much value. We expect much of these boys and the boys who did not letter, next year.

In track, Hampton Lisle, a sophomore, has proven to be a sprinter of the grade "A" type. His specialty is the 100 yard dash. Ed Brooks, another sophomore, is a 220 man. Ed also is a good broad jumper and can run the 440 in less than 57.

Girls' basketball saw Mable Schmitz and Mary Lee West, two of the outstanding members of the team. Mable's eye for the basket was one cause for the high scores which the girls always had at the close of each game. Mary Lee West played run-center and took care of the center's tipoffs.

Intramural Sports

Intramural sports also found the sophomores of Canyon High School doing well.

The girls' intramural basketball team consisting of Arneta Kirkpatrick and Bill Price, forwards. Yvonne Thomas and Edith Steen, centers, and Marie Price and Thelma Bryant, guards, defeated their opponents and received a silver basketball trophy for being the C. H. S. intramural champs.

The boys' intramural basketball team was not so successful. It lost to the 7th grade, the winner of the tournament.

In intramural track the sophomore track team was defeated by the juniors and seniors.

The volleyball team of Canyon High School which won over Sunny hill school in the county meet was largely composed of sophomores. Jewell Chambers, Frances Gill, Winnie Dee Hicks, Arneta Kirkpatrick, Wilma Price, Edith Steen, Yvonne Thomas, Mary Lee West and Mable Schmitz all took part in volleyball.

Roscoe King, Chris Wooten, Mable Schmitz specialized in tennis. Roscoe plays doubles with Leigh Beeson; Chris plays singles and Mable plays singles.

Skeeler Wirt or Chris Wooten, both sophomores will probably represent the district in golf.

Since these students are only in their second year in High School we expect much of these people in the future.

McCue Speaks To Assembly On Life Saving

On Tuesday, the 11th, the High School was entertained by Mr. McCue, who is a field representative of the Red Cross. Mr. McCue's work is representing the Red Cross in First Aid and Life Saving. During Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, he was at W. T.

In Mr. McCue's talk he stressed these points: physical shock and the importance of rescue work. He also talked about swimming and the ways of rescuing drowning people; he gave us some vefy vivid illustrations using Marvin Callihan to illustrate his points.

Home Economics Club Sponsors Assembly Program

Thursday afternoon at activity period, the Home Economics girls presented an assembly program on etiquette. The program opened with a song by the third year girls and a dance by Wilma Harris and Lela Hickox. The contest winners in dress making from the second and third year class were announced. These two representatives were Jennie Lee Nobles and Jean Burgess. As the First Year girls have not finished their dresses their representative has not been chosen. These dresses will be sent to Mineral Wells on May 4, for the Texas State Clothing contest.

The play "Invited Out" was given, illustrating different table manners of importance. The characters were Dora Mae Plaster, Mattie Lee Parker, Christine Shackelford, Phyllis Bryant, and the stage manager, Jane Clark. The Second Year girls sang a song about vegetables, and Myrtle Chitwood gave a reading, "If, for Girls." To close the program the First Year girls sang a song and immediately after, Mable Schmitz and Edith Steen gave a tap dance.

SENIOR PLAY

The seniors spent Wednesday in the Methodist encampment picnicking. The '33 seniors chose this day to sneak from school drudgery or pleasure, and had a wonderful time. This is an annual privilege.

Starting at 7:00 from the grandstand, they arrived at the encampment and cooked breakfast which consisted of a feast of oranges, toast, bacon, eggs, and coffee. After breakfast everyone hiked to the falls. About 11:30 groups started strolling in for dinner. Everyone brought a sack of lunch and spread it. Games were played and a good time was enjoyed by all. At 3:30 Mr. Terry, the sponsor, called everyone together to take kodak pictures. Mrs. Robinson was also present as chaperone. Everyone started home about 4:00.

The Canyon High School entered Ogden Stroud in boys' singles, and Bob Black and Austin Cone in boys' doubles. "Hafta" Overton played singles, and Rosa Cash and Dora Mae Plaster played doubles in the girls division. Mable Schmitz veteran doubles player was unable to compete in the tournament and Rosa substituted for her.

Station S-O-P-H History Broadcast From C. H. S.

This is station S-O-P-H, broadcasting the Sophomore history from C. H. S., Canyon, Texas.

In 1924, if you had walked into the old brick school house and inquired for the first grade, you would have found a timid looking bunch of 'kids' with their teacher, Miss Elva Fronabarger. The next year Miss Slover taught this intelligent group. When their third year came, you would not have found these timid pupils, because they had lost their bashfulness and were passing notes and throwing paper wads. In this year, the old building was torn down in preparation for a new building; therefore Miss Stallings and Miss Hood, with their classes, moved to the Court House. When they were in the fourth grade, they were back in a new building with their teachers, Miss Crawford and Miss Childress who noticing that the pupils were beginning to understand "what it was all about," introduced besides new school subjects, some athletics to them. At the same time, Miss Strain came to the grade school and gave them their first lessons in public school music. In the fifth grade, they had lockers, were "up stairs," and "changed classes," which made them feel as if they were grown-ups. In 1929 and 1930, the sixth grade had their first dose of a full course in health. At the end of the seventh year, Mr. Savage, from the Training School, delivered the address at the graduation of all members of the Seventh Grade. They left, as a gift to the school, a case for lost and found articles. Although the poor fish of 1931 and 1932 suffered from the remarks of the upper classmen about their dumbness, etc., they lived through it, having taken great interest in sports and school activities. Now they are sophomores and you really should see what progress they have made.

The students that started to school here in the first grade, who are now here, are: Marie Price, Wilma Price, Helen Elizabeth Bowman, Jewel Chambers, Gladys McBride, Dora Mae Plaster, Rubye Foster, Mary Ella Lowe, Ellen Dickinson, Arneta Kirkpatrick, Mary Lee West, Mary Jean Mickle, Bud Myers, Roland Black, Kenneth Black, Robert Orton, Jack Oldham, Jack Pitts, Lorenzo Wirt, Roscoe King, Cecil O'Donald, Chris Wooten, and Joe Winstead.

At the sound of the gong it will be exactly April 20, 1933, and station S-O-P-H is signing off until this time next year.

RICK-RACKS

What do you see in the morning as you pass in front of the building? Rick-Racks. What do you see at noon and at all other times of leisure? Rick-Racks. Everyone, even the first graders, and the seniors, are rick-racking.

In case some of you are in the dark, a rick-rack is a small wooden object shaped something like a tennis racket. It has a small rubber ball attached onto it by a long rubber string.

What you first notice, when watching them play, is that the players are many times more expert in getting wound up in the rubber string than in bouncing the ball.

A rather common happening while playing with these is the pained hollering of some one who has been accidently hit with a ball.

These dangerous play-things have made life dangerous on the downtown streets as well as at school. Here's hoping that when rick-racks are dead, some other fad will come that is no more dangerous than jig-saw puzzles.

You never see a perfect bluff until you see a girl acting glad because a girl acquaintance is engaged.

Spanish Week Is Observed In Canyon High

Spanish Week is being observed from April 16 to 23 this year. The chief object of Spanish week is to commemorate the death of Miguel de Cervantes de Sauvedra, the Shakespeare of Spanish literature, who died April 23, 1616. Cervantes is celebrated for his famous novel "Don Quijote" a novel which has been translated into nearly every language.

Students of the Spanish department of Canyon High School are observing April 16 to April 23 as Spanish week. The Spanish department of each school is observing this week just as Christmas and Thanksgiving are observed.

Each day during the week a different committee, composed of members of the Second Year Spanish class, is preparing the bulletin board in room 19 in some appropriate way. Another committee prepared the bulletin board last Wednesday for the remainder of the week, observing Pan-American day, a day being observed by countries of north and South America.

Each day in class period interesting features are being presented. Some of these are Spanish music, Spanish proverbs and Spanish pronunciation of words by phonograph records. Thursday, a program is being given in assembly by members of the Spanish department to observe Cervantes week and to let other students know about the activities of the week. Thursday night, comes the greatest event of the year, the Spanish banquet which will be served in the Home Economics dining room. Gay caballeras and beautiful senoritas will enjoy the program and feast in a regular Spanish patio.

Sophomores Take Interest in Music

The Sophomore Class probably has more musicians than any other class in High School. The High School Band and Orchestra both are composed largely of Sophomores.

Sophomores in the High School Band are: Robert Orton and Mable Schmitz, solo cornet; Lorenzo Wirt, solo clarinet; Jackie Pitts, second cornet; Ed Brooks, Sousaphone, and Jack Oldham, saxophone.

In the orchestra we have: Mable Schmitz, first cornet; Robert Orton, second cornet, Lorenzo Wirt, first clarinet; Rubye Foster and Lorene Bessire, violins.

Sophs and Juniors Tie For Honors Last Six Weeks

The students have shown a very good average this six weeks. There are twenty-three students out of the four classes who did not make a grade below "B." The Sophomores and Juniors tied by having eight pupils each on the honor roll.

Sophomores: Winnie Dee Hicks 4 A's; Lorene Bessire, 3 A's, 1 B; Dorothy Dickenson, 3 A's, 1 B; Marie Price, 3 A's, 1 B; Thelma Bryant, 2 A's, 2 B's; Jewell Chambers, 2 A's, 2 B's; Mary May Harrison, 2 A's, 2 B's; Robert Orton, 2 A's, 2 B's.

Seniors: Jean Burgess, 4 A's; Verline Furlow, 3 A's, 2 B's; Frances Marshall, 3 A's, 2 B's.

High School Football Squad Works Hard

Spring football practice started about three weeks ago. Two sophomores, who have never come out for football before, are Hampton Lisle and Ed Brooks. They are showing up very well and are attracting a great deal of favorable comment. These sophomores are expected to be seen in action next fall: Chris Wooten, O. M. Solomon, Ed Brooks, Cecil O'Donald, and Hampton Lisle. Several Training School boys have been practicing with the Eagle Squad. Among these boys are Johnnie Wilson and Wade Johnson.

NEW SPANISH FLAG

The Spanish Department has just received a flag of the type now used by the Spanish Republic. The flag is three feet by two feet. There are three stripes, 3 feet by 7½ inches, the stripes are red, yellow and purple. The flag was purchased through donations made by the members of the Spanish Department.

EDITORIAL

There is one thing I would like done in Canyon High School. I think we need some window screens in the study hall.

During April and May, the flies are terrible in the study hall, especially in the afternoon, because the study hall is cool and shady. Flies are very unsanitary, and I think it is a menace to our health. As well as being unsanitary, they are very bothersome. A person may be reading a book, and a fly will light on his ear. The person makes a pass at his ear and tries to grab the fly. The study hall teacher will sometimes put the person in detention for disturbing the peace. Flies will sting you on the leg, hand, arm, nose, ear or face, which always makes the person jump, and detracts his mind from his studies.

I think as a health aid and an aid to our studies, and our personal ease, some method to keep the flies out of the study hall should be put into use.

Rosa Cash Expected To Win District In Declamation

Rosa Cash, a junior in Canyon High School, is expected to win in Senior Declamations at the District meet held at the West Texas State Teachers College on April 21 and 22.

Rosa is one of the best declaimers that Canyon High has had in several years. This is not her first year as a declaimer for she is a veteran of the work. She has made declaiming an art which only she can excell in.

As a reward for the time Rosa has spent on declamations, she has met success. The record which she established this year in declamations is as good as any ever recorded. She has not been defeated this year. On February 18 at the Amarillo Speech Tournament, she won first place and brought home the loving cup which we see in the trophy case. On April 5, she won over all Canyon High School opponents.

The leading orators of our community believe Rosa will go to state this year in declamation and we expect much of her, so let's all wish her good luck so she can do her best on the 21 and 22.

District One of the Texas Interscholastic League will meet in Canyon next Friday and Saturday, April 21-22, under the auspices of the West Texas State Teachers College, sponsors of the events since the League was first organized fifteen years ago. A dozen or more Panhandle high schools will be represented.

During the two days both literary and athletic events will be held with the winners representing District One at the State Meet held in Austin next month.

At the same hour semi-finals in all divisions of declamations and extemporaneous speech will be held.

At 8:00 p .m. the finals in declamation will be held in the auditorium of the main building and at 8:30 finals in extemporaneous speech will commence in the auditorium of the Education building. A program has been prepared by W. E. Lockhart, Director General of the meet, announcing details for both days' events.

W. T. students and faculty members will act as judges in many instances. All events will be placed under their direction and are being arranged so that they will be executed with precision and the speed necessary to prevent delay and confusion.

The Campus looks forward to the League meet eagerly since it brings here the high schools from which so many W. T. students are graduates.

Season tickets to all events, both literary and athletic, will be twenty-five cents. The proceeds of the meet are used to defray incidental expenses and are not made for the profit of the college or any individual organization.

Farmers Wait Results as Economists Take Over Farm Relief

WITH President Roosevelt's "Big Four" getting their shoulders behind the gigantic problem of putting agriculture on its feet, the nation's farmers are eagerly waiting to see if economists can succeed where politicians have failed.

Henry Agard Wallace of Iowa; Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel of Virginia; Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell of New York; and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., also of New York, are the four men whom the president has made responsible for putting through a program to relieve the distressed farmers. And each is well fitted for the part he must play

Supervising the vast assignment is Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Rugged - looking, medium - sized, younger than his 44 years, Wallace is an economist, an agricultural scientist, a dirt farmer and a business man. Though no politician—he has never held office before—he is excellently equipped for his job. Through the medium of the agricultural journal which he publishes, Wallace has been in constant, intimate contact with the problems of midwest farmers. The Wallace newspaper was started by his grandfather, and carried on by his father, who was President Harding's secretary of agriculture.

Studious and reserved, Wallace has grown, through his writings and his incessant battle for the farmer's interests, into one of the biggest figures in the grain region. An advocate of currency inflation and tariff revision as a means of bettering farming conditions, Wallace was one of the original proponents of the domestic allotment plan.

AIDING the secretary in his effort to save 10,000,000 farmers and their families from ruin are Drs. Tugwell and Ezekiel. Tugwell, principal economic adviser to President Roosevelt and a member of the latter's famed "Brain Trust," is a former Columbia University professor. Of all the pre-election Rooseveltian advisers, Tugwell knew most about the economics of agriculture. His long-standing contention that an important step in any effective farm relief plan must be the restoration of the normal balance between wholesale prices and the retail prices to consumers, has been reflected in the farm relief legislation proposed thus far.

AS economic adviser to Secretary Wallace, Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel occupies a new office in the Department of Agriculture. It will, though, mean only a continuation of the work he has been doing for the government for the last 10 years. Since he entered the department in 1922, the problem of adjusting farm production to demand has occupied him. One of his achievements has been to develop an agricultural outlook service, which estimates agricultural planting and production under normal conditions for the coming year, pointing out probable fields of over- or under-production.

In 1930 Dr. Ezekiel was made assistant chief economist of the Federal Farm Board. Only 34 years old, he is an alumnus of the University of Maryland, the University of Minnesota, and the Brookings Institute graduate school of economics in Washington, D C

HENRY MORGENTHAU, JR., appointed by the president to head the new farm credit unit in the refinancing of agriculture, will strive to adjust the debt load of U S. farmers. His father, like Secretary Wallace's, served a former president. Henry Morgenthau, Sr., was President Wilson's ambassador to Turkey. Henry, Jr., has been interested in agriculture since his college days at Cornell, when he specialized in the subject. When he returned from service in the navy during the World War, he purchased the American Agriculturist, a leading farm journal. Several years ago, he was appointed state conservation commissioner of New York. In his new capacity, Morgenthau has expressed the aim of the Farm Credit Administration to be "lower and more uniform interest rates for farmers."

Frank Reeves of the Star-Telegram who has covered all of the important gatherings of old timers in West Texas. Many brands were placed on the 50-year-old chuck wagon while here.

Business Session

The business session in the afternoon was attended by more than 150. L. F. Sheffy made his final report of the money he had collected for the museum building, nearly $28,000 having been paid in by citizens of West Texas to match the $25,000 appropriation of the state. More than $800 in pledges have not been paid, which Mr. Sheffy hopes to collect in order to build display cases for the relics.

Judge H. E. Hoover, President J. A. Hill and others spoke in appreciation of the work of Mr. Sheffy, and a rising vote of appreciation was given for his labors.

W. H. Patrick of Clarendon, H. W. Russell of Amarillo and Judge A. J. Fires of Childress were re-elected directors for a term of three years.

The directors named Judge Hoover as president; Mr. Patrick, first vice president, Mr. Hill second vice president; Mr. Sheffy, secretary; W. L. Vaughan, treasurer; Floyd Studer, director of scientific research.

Banquet Held

The annual banquet was held at Cousins Hall at night, with more than 270 present. The following was the program:

T. D. Hobart of Pampa, presiding.

Toastmaster: Hermon C. Pipkin of Amarillo.

Welcome Address. Dr. J. A. Hill of Canyon.

Responsse: W. H. Patrick of Clarendon.

Introduction of Visitors.

Violin Solo: Herschel Coffee.

Address: "The Lure of the Soil" by J. Evetts Haley.

Cowboy Songs: Wallace R. Clark.

Dedicatory Address: Judge James D. Hamlin of Farwell.

Museum Opened

The directors named the following hours for keeping the museum building open: Sunday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, 2:00 to 6:00 o'clock.

More than 1600 people visited the museum Friday afternoon, and on Sunday afternoon the building was visited by more than 1000 people.

Nothing but praise was heard on the part of the visitors for the beauty and appropriateness of the building, and for the arrangement of the relics. Scores of people promised additional relics for the collection just as soon as display cases may be provided.

Mr. Studer states that he has hundreds of specimens which may be prepared for display in connection with pre-historic ages. A work room in the west end of the basement will make it possible for Mr. Studer to prepare the materials which is excavated at different places in the Panhandle.

Statements Made

Among the expressions gathered during the day were the following:

T. D. Hobart, Pampa: "I have never been happier than to open this beautiful building and to be here on the day when it becomes the property of the people of this great region."

Mrs. W. T. Coble, Amarillo: "I feel a proprietary interest in everything in the museum. I have gone through it again and again today, delighted to find how valuable and interesting are the things it contains."

Mrs. Olive K. Dixon: "This has been a happy day for me. Three of my children are here at the meeting; they are learning what the Historical Society means to the Panhandle."

J. Evetts Haley, Austin: "I have always believed that there is a relation between stability of residence and stability of character."

Dr. J. A. Hill: "In raising funds for the construction of the museum, Mr. Sheffy never did know what the letters 'N-O' meant."

Judge Hoover, Canadian: "The greatest honor of my life was that of naming this Museum Building, 'Pioneer Hall'."

John Hendricks, Sweetwater: "I have enjoyed being here. The people at the programs and around the chuck wagon all seemed to be having a good time."

Horace M. Russell, Amarillo: "The pictures of Harold Bugbee, A. W. Mack, Margaret Seewald, John Eliot Jenkins, Vernon Hunter and Ben Carlton Meade were beautifully hung by Miss Robinson."

Matthew (Bones) Hooks, Amarillo: "I am one of the few remaining witnesses to the part the pioneer men and women played in blazing the way for the comforts of life that the new generation are enjoying today."

Judge A. J. Fires, Childress: "Every one who becomes a member of this Society becomes genuinely interested in it, and can secure other members. I had to adjourn court to be here today. I have tried for nearly ten years to get to a meeting."

J. D. Hamlin, Farwell: "The lone cowboy, riding his horse across the short grass is becoming a rapidly dimming silhouette against the horizon."

Col. R. P. Smythe, Plainview: "Of course, I'm here. I never miss a meeting, do I?"

John McCarty, Dalhart: "We had flats and bad roads, but Mrs. McCarty and I would not have missed this meeting for anything."

Mrs. O. S. Walsh and son, Victor, were guests Sunday of Mrs. Walsh's sister, Mrs. B. Brewer.

Rev. C. E. Jameson and family of Shamrock were in the city yesterday for a short time.

Karl Ellison and family visited his parents in Childress last weekend.

Highlight of Outdoor Track Season, Ushered in by Kansas and Penn Relays, Will Be the Cunningham-Venzke Tilt

BY PHILIP MARTIN

THE indoor track season having finished with a few bits of brilliant action, college track stars are all set to usher in the outdoor season with the running of the Kansas and Penn Relays.

The Kansas events, coming on Saturday, April 22, will be the 10th anniversary of this meet, and will attract track and field stars of universities, colleges and junior colleges in some dozen states.

Twelve relay races, and eight special individual events are expected to produce a good share of record-breaking; whether or not they do, however, depends entirely on old man Weather.

One of the highlights of the Kansas meet, to be staged at Lawrence, Kansas, will be the 1500-meter run. This event is expected to continue the rivalry of Glenn Cunningham, University of Kansas runner, and Gene Venzke, University of Pennsylvania star, that was brought to fever pitch during the past indoor season. Glenn took Gene's measure in the majority of the board sessions, and Venzke is out for revenge.

The dark horse of this special event is Glenn Dawson, of Tulsa. He may show his heels to both Cunningham and Venzke.

* * *

ANOTHER event of the Kansas relays that will draw much interest is the decathlon. Jim Bausch, Olympic decathlon winner, is expected to have a lot of competition from Clyde Coffman, University of Kansas, and Wilson Charles, an Indian from Haskell Institute, in this event.

All schools of the Big Six Conference are expected to enter this meet, and several of the Big Ten colleges, Notre Dame, and other mid-western institutions are sending squads to compete.

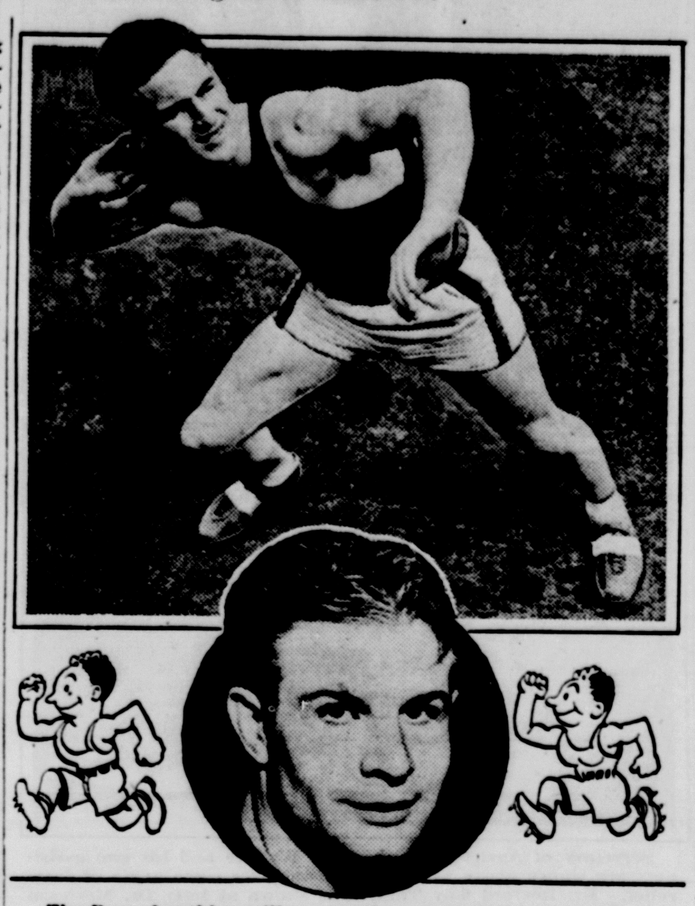
* * *

THE Penn Relays, to be staged in Philadelphia, April 28, will draw most of the track talent of the east and mid-west.

Ohio State has entered its crack relay squad and Jack Keller, brilliant hurdler; Joe McCluskey, Fordham's unbeatable distance runner, will compete with a mile relay squad in the thirty-ninth running of this historic relay meet; Cunningham and Venzke are expected to renew their wars in the mile or 1500-meter run; University of Chicago will send along a squad of track and field performers; and smaller schools, such as Detroit City, Marquette, Michigan Central and others, will be there to try for honors.

If Yale's Keith Brown enters the meet, you'll probably find a new pole vault record hung up after he finishes. Brown is the best vaulter in the country right now, and experts look for him to do considerably better than 14 feet before the year is over.

The Penn decathlon will narrow down to a duel between Barney Berlinger, Penn star, and Jim Bausch. Barney beat Jim in an indoor event this year, and big Jim is anxious to wipe out that defeat. And, with a knee injury healed, he has better than an even chance to do so.



The Penn decathlon will narrow down to a duel between Barney Berlinger, above, Penn star, and Jim Bausch, below, Olympic decathlon winner.

Associated Press Has Carried Many Stories of Canyon

A very interesting and instructive talk was made Tuesday at the luncheon of the Rotary Club regarding the work of the Associated Press in this section by Harry Montgomery, manager of the Amarillo office of this organization. Mr. Montgomery was introduced by Fred E. Wortham, chairman of the Public Information committee.

Mr. Montgomery stated that the Associated Press had done more for publicity for this section than had the $10,000 advertising campaign which was put on by the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, and it had cost this section nothing. The AP is the greatest news gathering organization in the world, owned and operated by 1300 daily newspapers. $9,000,000 are spent annually in gathering news for the members.

Canyon has profited as much as any town in West Texas. Among the stories carried all over the world regarding Canyon were: Coach S. D. Burton, producer of winning basketball teams, who never played a game; The Buffaloes, tallest team in America; Joe Fortenberry; the Palo Duro Park; Mary Helen Hardin, college queen; the domino tournament; work on teeth brown stain by Dr. C. A. Pierle; the museum building; the largest mastodon found in America, being prepared for the museum; Floyd Studor, who has charge of work in the museum.

Mr. Montgomery outlined stories from all over this section that he has sent out from his office. These are all features, constructive in nature, and noted for lack of crime features. The Panhandle has had the best representation of news of any section of the country, and better than all the rest of Texas combined. Mr. Montgomery takes no credit for himself, but attributes this to the fine citizenship and sources of good feature material.

Visitors present Tuesday were: Hermon Pipkin and Harry B. Gooch of Amarillo; and Thos Nabors of Plainview.

Palo Duro

West Texas Chamber of Commerce officials.

Only one obstacle appears to prevent the establishment of the camps in the Palo Duro Canyon. The work must be done on public land. There is no Federal reservations in Texas at this time and there are no public lands in the Palo Duro Canyon, either State or Federal.

A resolution was adopted Friday at the meeting of the Historical Society advocating the building of the highway down the Palo Duro. It was stated by J. O. Guleke of Amarillo that this would employ about 4,000 men throughout the coming winter. Mr. Guleke stated he would make a trip to Washington to promote the project.

Sunny Hill News

No more rain has come our way and dirt is beginning to blow again.

The H. D. Club is giving a play Friday night of this week. Mrs. Melvin Miller, as Ada Martin has two jobs in trying to make a living from their restraunt and manage her absent-minded grandfather, Mr. Parker, played by A. E. Wise. The other characters are: Jack Mason, Alton Cain; Jim, the dollar man, Snooks Robinson; Daisy Burke, the flapper, Corinne Hollabaugh; Daisy's friend. Dolly Collins, Leona Dowdy; Chuck Emery, a man around town, Roy Montgomery; Sadie Jones, very snappy and "smarty," Lola Carter; Ezra Jones, Sadie's "dumb" brother, Ernest Duncan; Zinny, the colored cook is played by Mrs. J. T. Sykes. To complete the cast, Mr. Hollabaugh plays the role of hard-boiled sheriff.

Sunny Hill Sunday school enjoyed Easter Sunday in the canyons. A picnic lunch was enjoyed at noon and Sunday school and a sermon by Bro. Hilburn were enjoyed in the afternoon.

Ira Greenfield of Post, Texas, visited in the J. E. Greenfield home here over the week end.

President's 'New Deal' to Reach U. S. Depositors and Investors

WITHOUT abating his energetic fight for effective farm and unemployment relief, President Roosevelt is bringing to fulfillment one more of his party's campaign promises by putting his shoulders behind a three-point program to protect the country's depositors and investors.

Given free rein by the ancient rule of caveat emptor (let the buyer beware), unscrupulous stock promoters and corporation officials have netted billions of dollars from American citizens. The concealment of important facts, the stressing of favorable earnings and omissions of unfavorable losses in income statements and balance sheets, the grouping of liabilities to cover up corporate weaknesses, the failure to provide prospective purchasers with auditors' reports—these are some of the unethical methods used to unload securities on the investing public.

The Federal Securities Act—first step of the Roosevelt program—aims to add to the ancient rule the further doctrine of caveat venditor (let the seller also beware). Security issues in the future, under the provisions of this Act, must be accompanied by the fullest publicity and information. No fact important to the buying public may be concealed. In short, upon the security seller falls the burden of telling the whole truth.

Under the Federal Securities Act, each new issue must be registered, at a fee of one one-hundredth of one per cent of its value, before the Federal Trade Commission. Under oath, everything connected with the issue—the issuing company's capitalization, its stock setup, purposes of issue, etc.—must be revealed by interested parties. Practically the same conditions apply in the case of a foreign government security.

In advertising their securities, the issuing companies must present approximately the same set of facts sworn to before the Commission. Any material sidestep from the facts makes promoters liable to civil damage suits by stock buyers, as well as criminal prosecution by the U. S. government. Likewise, the Trade Commission registration may be revoked in case of any fraud or violation of the bill by an issuing company. In addition, it is made a crime to convey to a prospective purchaser the idea that federal registration of an issue is equivalent to federal approval of the worth of that issue.

THE $2,000,000,000 bank deposit guarantee bill—second step in the president's program—is sponsored by Sen. Carter Glass and Rep. H. B. Steagall, chairman of the House banking committee.

In the main, the bill is based on Senator Glass' banking reform bill of last year. Recognizing that commercial and investment banking do not mix to the best interests of investors and depositors, the bill calls for a divorce of security affiliates of banks within two years. It likewise intends to do away with interlocking directorates between investment banking houses and industrial enterprises whose securities they handle. It would stop payments of interest on checking accounts in Federal Reserve member and national banks. It may possibly prohibit banks from lending money to its own officers. It will increase the minimum capital for national banks from $25,000 to $50,000. And it will provide for the dismissal of bank officials found incompetent.

The bank deposit guarantee fund called for in this bill, would be administered by a corporation with an initial $500,000,000 capital. The corporation would then be given authority to issue bonds up to a total of $1,500,000,000, making its resources $2,000,000,000. The Federal Reserve banks would be required to subscribe an amount equal to one-half their surplus—about $150,000,000. The treasury would subscribe a similar amount. Then, there would be an assessment on the Federal Reserve banks not to exceed one-fourth of one per cent of their deposits. This the banks could easily handle because of the $215,000,000 they are able to save through discontinuance of the interest payment on checking accounts provided for in the bill.

According to Mr. Steagall, the bill is not in any way a government deposit guarantee proposal. It does, though, contemplate a 100 per cent guarantee of all deposits subject to withdrawal at the time the bill is passed.

REGULATION of stock and commodity exchanges, by restricting use of Federal Reserve funds for marginal trading, will feature the third and last step in President Roosevelt's "new deal" for U. S. investors and depositors.
